CALIFORNIA ELECTIONS DATA ARCHIVE

INTRODUCTION

The California Elections Data Archive (CEDA) is a joint project of the Center for California Studies and the Institute for Social Research, both of California State University, Sacramento and the office of the California Secretary of State. The purpose of CEDA is to provide researchers, citizens, public agencies and other interested parties with a single repository of local election data. With over 6,000 local jurisdictions in California, the task of monitoring local elections is nearly impossible for individuals. CEDA addresses this problem through the creation of a single, cost-effective and easily accessible source of local election data. CEDA includes both candidate and ballot measure results for county, city, community college, and school district elections throughout the State. CEDA thus represents the only comprehensive repository of local election results in California.

Election data are collected periodically throughout the year. This enables CEDA to incorporate results from special elections as well as all regularly scheduled elections. Election results from counties, cities, and community college and school districts are entered in the CEDA database from which three standard CEDA reports are generated. These reports include:

- County Elections: Candidates, ballot designations, and vote totals for all elected county offices; vote totals and text for county ballot measures.
- City Elections: Candidates, ballot designations, and vote totals for all elected city offices; vote totals and text for all city ballot measures.
- Community College and School District Elections: Candidates, ballot designations, and vote totals for all elective community college and school district offices; vote totals and text for all district ballot measures.

Ballot measures for all jurisdictions are coded according to type (e.g., charter amendment, bond measure, initiative, etc.) and to subject (e.g., taxes, education, public safety, governance, etc.).

THE CENTER FOR CALIFORNIA STUDIES

Located at California State University, Sacramento, the Center for California Studies is a public policy, public service and curricular support unit of the California State University. The Center's location in the state Capital and its ability to draw upon the resources of the entire State University system give it a unique capacity for making contributions to public policy development and the public life of California. Center programs cover four broad areas: administration of the nationally known Assembly, Senate, Executive, and Judicial Administration Fellowship Programs; university-state government liaison and applied policy research; civic education and community service through forums, conferences and issue dialogues; and curricular support activity in the interdisciplinary field of California Studies.

INSTITUTE FOR SOCIAL RESEARCH

Established in 1989, the Institute for Social Research (ISR) is an interdisciplinary center serving the research needs of federal, state and local government agencies, non-profit organizations and university administration, faculty and students. These services include research and sampling design, measurement, coding and data entry, computer assisted telephone and field interviewing, mailed surveys, focus groups, data base management, statistical analysis and report production. ISR has completed numerous contracts with over 40 state and community agencies, several private firms and many administrative units of the university. Faculty affiliates of the Institute offer expertise in a wide variety of disciplines, including the social sciences, health and human services, engineering and education.

CALIFORNIA SECRETARY OF STATE

The Secretary of State is, among other duties, California's chief elections officer with the responsibility of administering the provisions of the Elections Code. The Secretary must compile state election returns and issue certificates of election to winning candidates; compile the returns and certify the results of initiative and referendum elections; certify acts delayed by referendum and prepare and file a statement of vote. Recent legislation permits but does not mandate that the Secretary of State compile local election results.

HISTORICAL PATTERNS AND TRENDS

CEDA now encompasses nine full years of election data, including two gubernatorial years (1998 and 2002), an historic recall of the governor in 2003, two statewide elections (1996 and 2000) and five odd-numbered years devoted to local races. The multi-year trends help to place the 2003 results in context.

BALLOT MEASURES

With respect to ballot measures, there are both consistent features across elections and what appear to be emerging trends. Among the consistent features are the following:

Type of Ballot Measure

- Bonds, tax measures, ordinance and charter amendments remain the most common ballot measures. All four are concentrated in even-year elections -- a pattern in evidence at CEDA's initiation in 1995 for all but bonds, which made the shift to even-year elections in 1998. The 2002 election ballot had the greatest number of bonds (245) and the 2003 ballot the fewest number (22) in CEDA's nine-year history. (Trend Table A)
- Most bonds are placed on the ballot by school districts, while tax measures are more often placed on the ballot by cities and counties. School districts, with fewer tax measures, deviate from the other jurisdictions in placing more of their tax measures on the odd-numbered year ballots (106 vs. 36 in even-numbered years between 1995 and 2003). Ordinances and charter amendments are mostly city measures. Cities place 3.2 ordinances on the ballot for every 1 placed by counties and 7.9 ordinances for every 1 placed by school districts. (Trend Table A)

- Recall measures are most common in cities (88) and school districts (66). In CEDA's nine years there were only 13 recall measures for county offices, although once on the ballot, they were more often successful (84.6% vs. 75.8% and 71.6% for school district and city offices). Recall measures are more likely to pass than any other type of measure. (Trend Table A)
- In the late 1990s, twenty-five California counties created Community Service Districts (CSD) and County Service Areas (CSA) as a reaction to the state-local finance environment that developed after the passage of Proposition 13 in 1978. The expectation was that smaller, more homogeneous areas would be more apt to approve tax increases to provide services that the broader county population would not support or that were lost as a result of Proposition 13. This expectation is supported by data on CSD/CSA tax measures which, together with Gann Limit measures, make up most of the ballot measures introduced by CSD/CSAs (110 out of 132 or 83.3%). In five of the six years that CEDA has tracked these measures, pass rates for CSD/CSA tax measures were significantly higher than for other county tax measures. While 22 of 70 county-wide tax measures passed (31.4%) between 1998 and 2003, 43 of 94 CSD/CSA tax measures passed (45.7%). Virtually all Gann Limit measures introduced by CSD/CSAs passed (15 out of 16). (Trend Tables D and F)
- Over the past six years, four counties account for half (50.8%) of all CSD/CSA ballot measures: Marin (23 measures), San Diego (16), El Dorado (16) and Kern (12). (Trend Table C)

Emerging trends include the following:

Number of Measures

- The number of ballot measures in odd-numbered year elections has been on the wane since 1997. 2003 saw the fewest ballot measures of any year since CEDA began tracking local election results in 1994. This decline has been partially compensated for by an increase in the number of even-numbered year measures (up 17.5% in 2002 over 2000), producing the largest number of measures in CEDA's history (657). This reflects a wide-spread movement in the 1990s to consolidate municipal elections with state elections held in even-numbered years. After a brief period of higher pass rates in 2001 (70%) and 2002 (65%), 2003 pass rates dropped closer to the rates of the mid-1990s (62% in 2003 compared with 57% to 61% in 1994 through 2000). (Trend Table A)
- Regular elections for county offices and measures are held in even-numbered years and thus the bulk of county ballot measures occur in even-numbered years. The shift of many city elections from odd to even-numbered districts (to achieve cost savings resulting from consolidating city with state and county elections) increased the number of city ballot measures being decided in even-numbered years. Unlike cities, many school districts initially retained odd-numbered regular elections schedules. In 1995, for example, there were 117 school district ballot measures while in 1996 there were only 87. In recent years this pattern has shifted with 250 school district measures appearing in 2002 but only 61 in 2003. (Trend Table A)

- While pass rates for city and county measures have been highly variable over time, school districts have seen a gradual but continual increase in pass rates from 51% in 1995 to a peak of 75% in 2002. In 2003, there was a dramatic reversal to a pass rate of 52%, a function perhaps of the lagging state and national economies. Most of the school district measures were bonds (20) and taxes (36). (Trend Table A)

Type of Measures

- An unusually large number of bonds are mainly responsible for the jump in ballot measures in 2002, accompanied by a dramatic drop in the number in 2003 (22 compared with a range of 73 to 128 in the odd-numbered years from 1995 to 2001). The unusual number of bond measures in 2002 may have temporarily satisfied the need for bonds and saturated local bond markets. This, in conjunction with a downgrading of the state's credit rating and a weak state and national economy, may have discouraged the placement of bond measures on the 2003 ballot. The peak number of bonds in 2002 may have been spurred by an unusually high pass rate for bonds in 2001 (75% passed), following passage of Proposition 39, which lowered the threshold for passage from 67% to 55% for school bonds meeting its requirements. Bond supporters in 2002 were rewarded with an equally high pass rate (76%) – a feat that was not repeated in 2003 when only 55% of bonds were approved (the second lowest pass rate in CEDA's 9-year history). (Trend Table A)

Ballot Measure Topics

- Governance measures found more favor with the electorate in 2003 than at any time since 1995: 73% of 52 governance measures passed in 2003, compared with 84% in 1995 and 63% to 67% during the intervening years. (Trend Table B)
- Also of interest was the sudden increase in support for public safety measures during 2001 and the return to historically lower levels by 2003. In five of the six years between 1995 and 2000, public safety measures enjoyed a pass rate of 42% to 51%. In 2001, this jumped to 73%, a presumed effect of 9/11. In 2002, the pass rate for these measures declined to 57%, returning to historical levels in 2003 with a pass rate of 50%. (Trend Table B)
- Public safety is the dominant topic of ballot measures sponsored by CSD/CSAs. Of 114 measures, 46 or 40.4% dealt with public safety. Moreover, CSD/CSAs accounted for two-thirds (68%) of the public safety measures on the ballots in the past six years. Success, however, was not assured. While 52.2% of the 46 passed, the winning odds are a function of the success in 2001 of all six measures. Without the year of 9/11, pass rates for public safety measures in CSD/CSAs averaged only 45%. (Trend Tables B and E)
- Finally, from 1998 on, support for transportation measures has been declining during the even-numbered years when most appear on the ballot. While 70% of the 23 transportation measures in 1998 passed, only 11% of 35 such measures passed in 2002. (Trend Table B)

CANDIDATES

With respect to candidate races, continuity dominates. Among the consistent features of local candidate races are the following:

- More than twice as many candidates for local offices (county boards of supervisors, other county offices, city councils, and local school boards) run in even-numbered years than in odd-numbered years. (Trend Table G)
- School district candidates dominate odd-year elections. In those years, they make up between 62% and 69% of all candidates on the ballot. Although more school board races occur in even-numbered years when most county and city races are decided, they constitute a minority of candidates for local offices in those years (40% to 46%). (Trend Table G)

Emerging trends in candidate elections include the following:

- Fewer people ran for local office in 2003 than in any election year in CEDA's history. Even though there are fewer contested seats in odd-numbered year elections, the 2,106 candidates in 2003 represented a noticeable decline from the number of candidates in four such years between 1995 and 2001. There were 16% fewer candidates in 2003 than in 1997 and 2001 (with 2498 and 2525 candidates respectively) and 8% to 12% fewer than in 1999 and 1995 (with 2293 and 2381 candidates). (Trend Table G)
- Since the number of candidates for county offices continued to increase in the odd-numbered years, the decline in total candidates is due to a significant decrease in the number of candidates for city office in the odd-numbered years (from an average of 736 to 571) and a similar decline (of 17%) in the number of school district candidates relative to the average of the preceding four odd-numbered years (1322 candidates in 2003 compared with an average of 1602). (Trend Table G)
- The growth in county candidates represents races for other county offices since the number of Community Service District and Community Service Area candidates in odd-numbered years has leveled off. CSDs and CSAs may be adopting the county's preference for even-numbered year elections; 2002 had more CSD/CSA candidates (266) than any year since their introduction. (Trend Table G and H)
- The proportion of incumbents among all candidates held steady at 31% -- the average of the preceding six years. This average, however, disguised opposing trends among city council and school board candidates. There were fewer incumbents among city council candidates (22%) than in any CEDA year since 1995, when only 18% of the candidates were incumbents, while there were more incumbents among school board candidates (35%) than in any CEDA year except 2002 (36%). With an incumbency percentage of 31.1% for school district candidates in the preceding 7 years, 2002 and 2003 represent a noticeable break with the past. (Trend Table I)

2003 ELECTION DATA

BALLOT MEASURES

Although Californians continue to love ballot measures, 2003 saw the fewest local ballot measures since 1995. In 2001, local voters faced 233 ballot measures and in 2002, a nine year high of 657. In 2003, the number fell to 178. Only 34 counties offered ballot measures in 2003, a third of them in three urban counties (31 in Los Angeles, 14 in San Francisco and 13 in San Mateo). Because county elections are not typically conducted in odd-numbered years, city ballot measures predominated with 89 compared with 61 school district and 28 county measures. Most were tax measures (62 or 34.8%) or ordinances (47 or 26.4%). Charter amendments and bonds accounted for another 26.8%. (Trend Table A and Table A)

The overall pass rate for ballot measures in 2003 was 62 per cent. School district measures passed at the lowest rate in eight years (52 per cent), while city and county measures passed at higher rates (67 per cent and 64 per cent respectively). The differing pass rates are a function of the types of measures associated with these jurisdictions. Bonds and tax measures made up the bulk of school district measures in 2003 and most such measures on the ballot were proposed by school districts. A slight majority of tax measures failed (51.6%) while a slight majority of bond measures passed (54.6%). Ordinances and charter amendments, on the other hand, were largely city and county affairs and much more likely to pass (70.2% and 75% respectively). (Table A and Trend Table A)

In the year of the first successful gubernatorial recall in California history, local ballots also saw a number of recall measures. Of the nine recalls, eight led to recall of the official; only one defeated the recall attempt. (Table A)

Education and governance issues dominated the ballot measures (61 or 34.3% and 52 or 29.2% respectively). A slim majority of education measures passed (52.5%), while most governance measures were approved (73.1%). Land use and revenue measures (15 and 13 respectively) were more apt to pass (60% and 61.5%), while transportation issues were more likely to fail (62.5%). (Table B)

County Measures. Voters in the 58 counties approved a clear majority of the 28 ballot measures (64 per cent). Ordinances (15) and taxes (12) predominated -- a not untypical pattern for odd-numbered year elections. Somewhat atypically, however, fewer of the tax measures passed (25 per cent) than usual for an odd-numbered year (between 33 per cent and 77 per cent from 1995 through 2001). Tax measures have generally been more successful, though less numerous, in odd-year elections. San Francisco, as usual, had the highest number of ballot measures, accounting for 13 of the 28 total county measures. All of San Francisco's measures passed. (Table 1.3)

County governance issues accounted for more than a third of all ballot measures in 2003 (36 per cent). This was the highest percentage of governance issues on county ballots since 1996, when they made up 39 per cent of all county ballot measures. The pass rate for these measures was the highest in nine years (90 per cent). Half a dozen revenue measures appeared on county ballots in 2003, but only one passed. In contrast, two general services and two transportation measures appeared, and all four passed. Public safety measures passed at slightly below the eight-year average rate (40 per cent vs. 43 per cent on average). Interestingly, there were no county land use or public facilities measures in 2003. (Table 1.4 and Trend Table B)

City Measures. Voters in municipal elections faced a total of 89 ballot measures, the smallest number in nine years. Pass rates for the city measures were only marginally higher than those for the county measures (67 per cent vs. 64 per cent). Ordinances and charter amendments accounted for over half of all city ballot measures (60 per cent) with taxes making up the next largest category (16 per cent). Five counties (Los Angeles, Napa, Riverside, Stanislaus, and Tulare) accounted for 58 per cent of all city ballot measures. (Table 1.3 and Trend Table A)

City tax measures were particularly successful in 2003. Indeed, the 2003 pass rate of 71 percent was the second highest in CEDA's 9 year history. Charter amendments were successful as always, with 75 per cent passing. All municipal recalls were successful with 6 city council members in Fresno and Los Angeles being recalled. (Table 1.3 and Trend Table A)

Governance issues dominated city ballots as they did in the county, accounting for nearly one-half (47 per cent) of all measures in the city and one-third (36 per cent) in the county. City pass rates on governance issues were somewhat lower than the counties' (69 per cent in the city vs. 90 per cent in the county). Land use issues, the second most common topic of city ballot measures, met with comparable success (60% passed). Although limited in number, all of the cities' revenue measures (7) and general services measures (4) passed. In contrast, only one of six county revenue measures succeeded. Transportation measures fared differently in the two jurisdictions: all six of the counties' transportation measures passed, while only two the cities' six measures succeeded. Public safety and public facilities issues made up relatively small proportions of city ballot measures (8 and 6 per cent respectively) but enjoyed similar pass rates (57 per cent and 60 per cent respectively). (Table 1.4)

School District Measures. Voters in community college and school districts passed judgment on a record low number of ballot measures (61 in 2003 compared with 250 in 2002 and an annual average of 147 between 1995 and 2002). Most of these were tax measures (59 per cent) or bonds (33%). While slightly less than half of the tax measures passed (47%), slightly more than half of the bonds succeeded (55%). The two recalls in the 2003 school district elections succeeded, a heavily favored outcome given the 76% pass rate for school district recalls over the previous eight years. (Table 1.3 and Trend Table A)

CANDIDATE ELECTIONS

Fewer Californians sought local office in 2003 than in any odd-numbered election year since CEDA began. There were only 2,106 local candidates in 2003 as compared to 2,525 in 2001, 2,293 in 1999 and 2,498 in 1997 and 2,381 in 1995. Most candidates in off-year elections are running for the school board (1322) or city offices (571). These numbers, however, fell by nearly a fifth between 2001 and 2003. Relatively few county offices (213) appear on odd-year election ballots. Most of these (181) are for directors of Community Service Districts and Community Service Areas. (Trend Table G and Table C)

The proportion of incumbents was unusually high for school district candidates (35% compared with an average of 31.1% between 1995 and 2001) and unusually low for city council positions - at 22%, the lowest since 1995 when only 18% of all candidates were incumbents. (Table C and Trend Table I)

Incumbents seeking reelection enjoyed a typically high success rate (76 per cent) though the number of winning candidates who were incumbents in county and city races was less than half.

For example, in city council races held in 2003, incumbents had a 78 percent re-election rate but less than half of council members elected were incumbents. This is typical of local elections where many incumbents choose not to seek reelection or pass away leaving open seats. School board elections, however, bucked the trend with incumbents making up 53 percent of winning candidates. (Table C)

County Races. Most county candidates were running for CSD/CSA directorships (181 out of 213 county positions). Almost 75 per cent of all candidates for county offices were non-incumbents and they prevailed in 65 per cent of the races. When they participated, however, incumbents were heavy favorites, winning 67.3 per cent of their races. Incumbent community service district (CSD/CSA) directors, in particular, won 65.4 per cent their races. In the few district attorney and sheriff's races, all incumbent candidates won. (Table 2.2)

City Races. As in county races, 75 per cent of all candidates for city offices were non-incumbents, but they prevailed in only 52.1 per cent of the elections. Incumbents won more often in all but the city council races where a majority (60.8 per cent) of the winning candidates were challengers. When they ran, however, incumbents prevailed in 78.3 per cent of their races. (Table 2.2)

School Board Races. School district elections attract more incumbents than cities and counties (a third of all school board candidates are incumbents while only a fourth of city and county candidates fall in this category.) Although incumbents are more likely to win in all three jurisdictions, incumbent candidates for county offices are less likely to be reelected than those running in city and school district elections (67.3% vs. 78.3% and 76.5% respectively). A solid majority of winning school board candidates were incumbents (53.6 per cent) while less than half of the city and county candidates who prevailed were incumbents (47.9% and 34.9% respectively). (Tables C and 2.2)

TABLE 1.2 TEXT FOR SCHOOL DISTRICT BALLOT MEASURES BY COUNTY, 2003

ALAMEDA	6/3/2003	Emery Unified	Measure A	Pass (2/3 required)
To strengthen and improve essential academic curricula and educational programs for the District's students, shall the Emery Unified School District be authorized to levy, for 6 years only beginning July 1, 2003, an annual tax of $0.10 per square foot of improved property or $50.00 per parcel, including vacant parcels, whichever is greater with an exemption for eligible property owners age 65 or over, and to appoint a Citizen's Fiscal Oversight Committee?
ALAMEDA	6/3/2003	Newark Unified	Measure B	Fail (2/3 required)
To provide revenue to maintain, restore and improve our excellent educational programs, such as math, science and reading, small class size, student support services, and clean and safe schools for our children shall the Newark Unified School District levy a special tax of $150 per parcel per year for five years, beginning on July 1, 2003 with an exemption for property owners age 65 and over?
ALAMEDA	11/4/2003	New Haven Unified	Measure A	Pass (2/3 required)
To improve local school facilities, relieve overcrowding, and receive State matching funds, provide alternative facilities for students struggling in school, and to replace deteriorated portables with permanent classrooms, renovate, acquire and/or construct school classrooms, sites and other facilities; shall New Haven Unified School District issue $120,000,000 of bonds at legal interest rates, with citizen oversight and all funds staying in our local community?
CONTRA COSTA	3/4/2003	Brentwood Union Elementary	Measure B	Pass (2/3 required)
In order to build new schools to avoid classroom overcrowding throughout the Brentwood Union School District, to add new classrooms and buildings to existing sites, renovate and improve all schools, improve student security systems, acquire future school sites, provide all students with access to technology, and for related purposes, shall the Brentwood Union School District issue $35 million of bonds at interest rates within the legal limit?
CONTRA COSTA	3/4/2003	Orinda Union Elementary	Measure A	Pass (2/3 required)
To provide secure local funding for Orinda's K-8 schools, including to maintain small class sizes and neighborhood schools; to protect classroom programs, strong core academics, libraries, computer instruction, and literacy support; and to hire and retain qualified teachers; shall Orinda Union School District be authorized to replace its existing instructional parcel tax with a levy of three hundred eighty-five dollars per year per taxable parcel, with an annual independent audit and an exemption for eligible low-income seniors?
CONTRA COSTA	9/16/2003	West Contra Costa Unified	Measure C	Fail (2/3 required)
To continue repairing all of our schools, improve classroom safety, and relieve overcrowding, by: building additional classrooms; making seismic upgrades; repairing and renovating bathrooms and leaking roofs, and making fire safety, electrical, plumbing, heating and ventilation system improvements; shall the West Contra Costa Unified School District issue $450 million in bonds at legal rates and within authorized debt limits, to repair, acquire, construct and upgrade school facilities, with annual audits, a citizens oversight committee and no money for administrators' salaries?
CONTRA COSTA	11/4/2003	San Ramon Valley Unified	Measure D	Fail (2/3 required)
To retain high quality teachers, provide for necessary educational programs and materials, keep school libraries open, avoid increased class sizes, and maintain counseling and music programs, shall the San Ramon Valley Unified School District be authorized to levy an annual tax of $90 per taxable parcel for five years only, beginning July 1, 2004, with independent annual audits and a complete exemption for parcels owned and occupied by persons 65 years of age or over?
FRESNO	11/4/2003	Coalinga/Huron Joint Unified	Recall 1	Pass
Shall Aurelio Leo Plasencia be recalled (removed) from the office of Governing Board Member Trustee Area No. 1 Coalinga-Huron Joint Unified School District?
HUMBOLDT	6/3/2003	Southern Humboldt Joint	Measure D	Fail (2/3 required)
Shall the Southern Humboldt Joint Unified School District provide funds for the purpose of reduction of class size and maintenance and enhancement of academic and educational programs by levying a special tax on each assessor's parcel of $75.00 per year ($37.50 semi-annual payment) for a period of seven years, beginning July 1, 2003 and increase its appropriation limit by the amount of revenue generated by that special tax, with certain specific exemptions as set forth in the Resolution and Order of Election?
IMPERIAL	11/4/2003	El Centro Elementary	Measure G	Pass (55% required)
To address student safety and aging facilities, repair or replace unsafe buildings, meet health/safety/fire standards and improve electrical wiring systems, shall the El Centro Elementary School District issue general obligation bonds in the amount of $8 million to construct, renovate, repair, replace, acquire and equip school facilities, including classrooms and restrooms, with such bonds to be issued at interest rates within the legal limits and all proceeds administered by an independent citizens oversight committee?
KINGS	11/4/2003	Tulare Joint Union High	Measure L	Pass (2/3 required)
In order to meet the educational needs of Tulare's growing high school age population and support Tulare's economic growth, shall the Tulare Joint Union High School District build a new high school and other related facilities and modernize the Tulare Western High School Swim Complex and shall the district issue $45 million of bonds at the lowest competitive interest rates within legal limits so long as spending is annually reviewed by a citizen's advisory committee?
LOS ANGELES	6/3/2003	Manhattan Beach Unified	Measure E	Fail (2/3 required)
To reduce the impact of budget cuts on essential educational programs, retain qualified and experienced teachers and staff and maintain manageable class sizes shall Manhattan Beach Unified School District levy a $108 annual tax on dwelling units and other parcels for five years with an exemption for the principal residence owned by persons 65 years of age or over and with an appointed citizens' oversight committee to ensure the money is spent properly?
LOS ANGELES	6/3/2003	Palos Verdes Peninsula Unified	Measure P	Pass (2/3 required)

TABLE 1.2 TEXT FOR SCHOOL DISTRICT BALLOT MEASURES BY COUNTY, 2003

To modernize and build new classrooms and facilities within the Nuview Union School District, replace plumbing, air conditioning, communications and electrical systems, provide classroom technology, create handicapped access, make the District eligible for State matching funds and enhanced safety with fire hydrants, security fencing, safer playgrounds, and asbestos removal, shall the District issue $6,000,000 of bonds with interest rates below the legal limit with spending reviewed by a citizen's oversight committee?

SAN BERNARDINO 3/4/2003 Central Elementary Measure I Fail (2/3 required)
Shall the Central School District of San Bernardino County issue general obligation bonds in an amount not to exceed $25,000,000 for the purpose of constructing permanent improvements to real property of the District including but not limited to: acquiring and replacing portable classrooms; acquiring and improving land including parking lot, student drop-off, and playground areas; constructing additional school facilities; constructing and/or remodeling various instructional and support facilities and modernizing various school facilities, all as needed throughout the District?
